PROJECT LIFEVOICE

There's no question about it, abortion is an unpleasant subject and a tough one for pastors and churches to address.

For many in our congregations, abortion is a deeply personal issue that invokes painful memories and feelings of guilt. Others view abortion as a political or a divisive issue and one the Church should avoid. The confusion surrounding this issue raises a crucial question: Is it possible for the local church to be both a protective voice for the unborn and a redemptive community for those who've had abortions?

Mike will bring clarity to this question and to the role of the Church in an abortion culture.

Mike pastored churches for 23 years and now travels extensively throughout the United States equipping pro-life ambassadors in churches, on high school and university campuses, and at pro-life banquets and conferences to make the case for life graciously and compellingly. Mike is a much sought-after communicator who has a passion to equip others to speak to the often emotional and divisive issue of abortion in way that is both winsome and compelling.

This event is open to all pastors, associate pastors, youth pastors, and their spouses. There is no cost to attend.
